Rafael Figueiredo worked as a researcher and as an instructor at the Faculty of Dentistry, University of Toronto. Further to his research and teaching activities, he received a Master of Science Degree, M.Sc. in 2011 and a Dental Public Health Specialty Degree in 2014. He has certification in Dental Public Health with the Royal College of Dentists of Canada.

Dr. Figueiredo assumed the position of Provincial Dental Public Health Officer with Alberta Health Services in Edmonton, Alberta in September 2014 and provides leadership and strategic direction to improve and respond to the oral health needs of Albertans through the Oral Health Action Plan (OHAP), which addresses health promotion, prevention and treatment services as well as research and surveillance.

Heidi Rabie graduated from the Faculty of Dentistry of the University of Montreal in 1998. After a decade of working in private practice in Quebec and Ontario, Dr. Rabie accepted a position as a clinical dentist and subsequently as Chief of the Public Health Dental Clinics of Alberta. She is passionate about serving marginalized populations and creating pathways to dental care for populations experiencing access to care issues.
