Who are the senior executives of the firm and what experience do they bring; is a strong governance structure in place; who are members of the str strategic/scientific advisory groups?

c) Partnerships

What is the status of essential corporate partnerships; is core technology developed in-house or licensed?

d) Market

What is the competitive position for the product of the company; who are the major competitors; how strong is the IP status and innovation on which the corporate strategy is based; are spin-offs possible or under development; is a communication/marketing plan in place with identified local, national or international customers; what obstacles might exist (e.g., technological, clinical trials, manufacturing, regulatory, pricing, etc.) before product gets to market?

e) Valuation

Who are major investors or fund sources, if identified; what is the current stock price and market cap, how has it evolved over the past few years, and how does this correlate with achieving or failing corporate milestones; from corporate financial reports, how strong is the financial position; does a revenue stream already exist for early stage products or services?

f) Conclusions

How well-defined and unique is the corporate focus; how strong is the company in its corporate structure and leadership; how dependent is the company on the success of external partnerships or technologies; how large and competitive is the target market; how strong is the financial status of the company and its projected well -being over the next few years.

Investor's Checklist (10%)

Guidelines for Zoom Sessions

Zoom is a video conferencing program that will allow us to meet at specific times for a 'live' video conference, so that we can have the opportunity to meet each other virtually and discuss relevant course topics as a learning community.

To help ensure Zoom sessions are private, do not share the Zoom link or password with others, or on any social media platforms. Zoom links and passwords are only intended for students registered in the course. Zoom recordings and materials presented in Zoom, including any teaching materials, must not be shared, distributed or published without the instructor's permission.

The use of video conferencing programs relies on participants to act ethically, honestly and with integrity; and in accordance with the principles of fairness, good faith, and respect (as the Code of Conduct). When entering Zoom or other video conferencing sessions, you play a role in helping create an effective, safe and respectful learning environment. Please be mindful of how your behaviour in these sessions may affect others. Participants are required to use names officially associated with their UCID (legal or preferred names listed in the Student Centre) when engaging in these activities. Instructors/moderators can remove those whose names do not appear on class rosters. Non-compliance may be investigated under relevant University of Calgary conduct policies. If participants have difficulties complying with this requirement, they should email the instructor of the class explaining why, so the instructor may consider whether to grant an exception, and on what terms. For more information on how to get the most out of your zoom sessions visit: https://elearn.ucalgary.ca/guidelines-for-zoom/.

If you are unable to attend a Zoom session, please contact your instructor to arrange an alternative activity (where available). Please be prepared, as best as you are able, to join class in a quiet space that will allow you to be fully present and engaged in Zoom sessions. Students will be advised by their instructor when they are expected to turn on their webcam (such as for group work, presentations, etc.).

The instructor may record online Zoom class sessions for the purposes of supporting student learning in this class – such as making the recording available for review of the session or for students who miss a session. Students will be advised before the instructor initiates a recording of a Zoom session. These recordings will be used to support student learning only.

Conduct During Lectures

The classroom should be respected as a safe place to share ideas without judgement - a community in which we can all learn from one another. Students are expected to frame their comments and questions to lecturers in respectful and appropriate language, always maintaining sensitivity towards the topic. Students, employees, and academic staff are also expected to demonstrate behaviour in class that promotes and maintains a positive and productive learning environment.

As members of the University community, students, employees and academic staff are expected to demonstrate conduct that is consistent with the University of Calgary Calendar, the Code of Conduct and Non-Academic Misconduct policy and procedures, which can be found at https://www.ucalgary.ca/policies/forms/title.

Equity, Diversity and Inclusion

The Cumming School of Medicine recognizes that equity, diversity, and inclusion benefits and strengthens all communities, including the medical community and those served by it. We aim to actively engage all learners, particularly those from equity seeking groups including women, Indigenous peoples, visible/racialized minorities, persons with disabilities, and LGBTQ+. While our faculty continues to learn about more equitable, diverse, and inclusive approaches to education, we welcome and appreciate suggestions to help us ensure that all learners are well served by our courses.

To help cultivate learning environments that support diverse and inclusive perspectives and lived experiences, learners are invited to let instructors know if:

- they have names and/or pronouns they would prefer to use that differ from those that appear on official records
- scheduled class meetings conflict with religious events so that alternative arrangements can be made
