From the Editor

Welcome to the first OHMES Update. We will be sending these out on a regular basis to OHMES members to support and encourage your educational scholarship activities at the Cumming School of Medicine and beyond. Please contact ohmes@ucalgary.ca if you have anything you would like to share with our community through the OHMES Update.

We are looking forward to another productive and engaging year with our annual symposium, project funding, and many other activities planned. Whether you have a particular project in mind or are looking for broader advice, we encourage you to use our consultation service – contact ohmes@ucalgary.ca.

We are particularly pleased to announce the appointment of Dr. David Topps as the clinical co-director for OHMES with a particular remit for engaging clinical faculty across the city and beyond. We particularly encourage clinical faculty with an interest in educational scholarship outside of the Foothills site to contact David at topps@ucalgary.ca.

In our Community

Congratulations to Sarah Anderson, PhD Candidate, member of the OHMES Executive Committee, and recipient of the Award for Graduate Assistants (Teaching) in the 2016 University of Calgary Teaching Awards. Sarah is pursuing her PhD in the Department of Community Health Sciences specializing in medical education, and is an active member of OHMES. In addition to serving on the OHMES Executive Committee as a student representative, Sarah was also a member of the 2016 OHMES Symposium Planning Committee. Sarah has also recently received the Schulich School of Engineering Outstanding Teaching Performance Award, a Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council Doctoral Fellowship, an Alberta Innovates Health Solutions Graduate Studentship, and a Best Poster Award at the Neuroscience and Education Conference in Amsterdam. We congratulate Sarah on her many awards, and look forward to her continued contributions to medical education!
