Course Description

Introduction to public health, emphasizing the contributions of social research from several disciplinary traditions (anthropology, economics, epidemiology, geography, political science, psychology, and sociology). Students practice and refine several skill sets, including: library research, public speaking, teamwork, leadership and academic writing.

Overarching Theme

This in-person course will introduce students to health research from the perspective of seven disciplines whose concepts and methods contribute to our understanding of health. In alphabetical order, these seven disciplines are:

1. Anthropology
2. Economics
3. Epidemiology
4. Geography
5. Political science
6. Psychology
7. Sociology

Given the multidimensional nature of health, students will explore the various social contexts and factors that contribute to health and how these are examined through different health research perspectives. The course will use homelessness as an example of a public health issue that can be explored through various social science lenses. This course has been designed to provide students with opportunities to practice and refine several skill sets, including academic writing (well-structured sentences and paragraphs), note-taking, public speaking, teamwork, collaboration, and leadership. In addition, students will develop critical thinking skills through discussion and group work focused on evaluating the merits of published research and documentaries.

Global Objectives

1. To foster an appreciation and understanding of the multi-dimensional factors that impact health and the contributions that various social science perspectives make to health research in a positive and engaging interactive classroom environment.
2. To develop writing skills essential for academic writing.
3. To develop collaboration skills essential for interdisciplinary health research.
4. To think critically about health information presented in the media and published health research.

Course Learning Outcomes

By the end of this course, students will be able to:

1. Paraphrase, summarize, compare, and discuss original research reports written by anthropologists, economists, epidemiologists, geographers, political scientists, psychologists, and sociologists.
2. Distinguish between key concepts current in anthropology, economics, epidemiology, geography, political science, psychology, or sociology with reference to pertinent examples. Key concepts include different disciplinary perspectives and research methods utilized.
3. Apply key concepts from anthropology, economics, epidemiology, geography, political science, psychology, and/or sociology to describe public health issues and identify avenues for health research.
4. Develop effective collaboration skills.
5. Discuss relationships between health and society concerning standard definitions and pertinent examples.
6. Critically evaluate and identify the strengths and limitations of information presented in published health research and documentaries on various health topics.

Transferable Skill Development

Many of the skills and abilities that you are developing in your coursework are transferable to the workforce, graduate and professional studies and other facets of life. Employers seek applicants with transferable skills because they can be an asset in the workplace, regardless of industry or sector. Transferable skills are core skills for your success in building your future career.

The work that you will do in HSOC 201 will help you build the following transferable skills:

- Collaboration: Work respectfully with others from different backgrounds, cultures, and countries.
- Verbal Communication: Learn and share information by presenting, listening, and interacting with others.
- Creativity and Innovation: Find different and better ways to do things, being curious, thinking imaginatively.

- Critical Thinking: Actively and skillfully conceptualize, apply, analyze, synthesize, and/or evaluate information (data, facts, observable phenomena, and research findings) to make a reasoned judgement or draw a reasonable conclusion.
- Information Literacy: Find, understand, and use information presented through words, symbols, and images.
- Project Management: Conceptualize, initiate, plan and execute a plan to achieve a predetermined goal (project) by effectively prioritizing activities and meeting deadlines.
- Written Communication: Share ideas and information by using words, images, and symbols.

Learning Resources

1. Textbook: There is no required textbook for this course.
2. Required Reading: A list of required readings will be outlined on D2L and links and documents will be made available.
3. Peer-reviewed Journal Articles: Students will retrieve assigned articles from the University of Calgary's library collection representing the seven disciplines introduced in this course.
4. Documentaries: Students will select and present summaries of documentaries covering any topic related to social issues in health. These may be chosen from streaming services, such as the National Film Board of Canada and the Calgary Public Library streaming service (Kanopy). Students are free to select any source for their documentary as long as the instructor can also readily and freely obtain a copy.
5. Class Notes: Each student is to prepare and maintain a set of their own class notes. Any content present in class, whether verbally or written, could be used for assessment. Class discussion is understood to constitute course content.

A Note regarding readings

Required readings have been chosen carefully to inform you and enhance the lecture material. Students are REQUIRED to complete assigned readings BEFORE each lecture. Instructors will proceed in class on the assumption that students have read the assigned readings. Students should be aware that many of the readings they will be assigned may be of an unfamiliar nature and style. Students should plan sufficient time to allow for the possibility of several reads of the assigned material.

Learning Technology Requirements

Brightspace (by D2L) is located on the University of Calgary server and will be used extensively for communication with students. It is the student's responsibility to ensure that they receive all posted communications and documents and that they receive emails sent by instructors or fellow students through D2L. Only your @ucalgary.ca email address may be linked to D2L. Please ensure that you are regularly checking your @ucalgary.ca account.

A laptop, desktop, tablet or mobile device is required for D2L access. If you need help accessing or using D2L, please visit the Desire2Learn resource page for students: <http://elearn.ucalgary.ca/d2l-student/>.

A student's final grade for the course is the sum of the separate assignments. It is not necessary to pass each assignment separately in order to pass the course.

NOTE: Submissions in this course may be uploaded to Large Language Models (LLMs) to assist in training Teaching Assistants (TAs) and improving feedback provided to students. Students who wish to opt out of this process should notify the course instructor by email.

A Note regarding Writing Assignments

Writing skills are important to academic study in all disciplines. In keeping with the University of Calgary's emphasis on the importance of academic writing in student assignments (Section E.2 of 2025-26 Calendar), writing is emphasized, and the grading thereof in determining a student's mark in this course. The Bachelor of Health Sciences values excellence in writing. Competence in writing entails skills in crafting logical, clear, coherent, non-redundant sentences, paragraphs and broader arguments, as well as skills with the mechanics of writing (grammar, spelling, punctuation). Sources used to complete each assessment must be properly documented, unless otherwise noted by the instructor. The University of Calgary offers instructional services through the Students' Success Centre's Writing Support Services (<http://www.ucalgary.ca/writingsupport/>) for students seeking feedback on assignments or seeking to improve their general writing skills. Students are strongly encouraged to take advantage of these programs.

Missed Components of Term Work

Students will lose 5% per day late past the deadline for all assignments. In this case, assignments will NOT be accepted more than 72 hours after the posted deadline and students failing to submit any assignment within this time frame will receive a mark of zero.

As per University Calendar Section G.2.3 students who are absent from an in-class assessment will receive a mark of zero on the missed component. Students who are absent are responsible for contacting their instructor to discuss the impact of their missed assessment. Alternative opportunities for completing missed assessments or shifting of the assessment weight may be possible but are not guaranteed. Students who are identified as falsifying information related to missed assessments will be subject to investigation for academic misconduct.

Extensions will NOT be granted on any assignment or quizzes in HSOC 201. The only exceptions to this are those in keeping with the University Calendar (debilitating illness, religious conviction, or severe domestic affliction) that are received in writing and with supporting documentation. Traffic jams and late or full buses are common events in Calgary and are NOT acceptable reasons for late arrivals to class, meetings, and examinations. Please note that while absences are permitted for religious reasons, students are responsible for providing advance notice and adhering to other guidelines on this matter, as outlined in the University Calendar

Course Evaluations and Student Feedback

Student feedback will be sought at the end of the course through the new UCalgary Course Experience Survey and a qualitative student evaluation. Students are welcome to discuss the process and content of the course at any time with the instructor. Students may also address any concerns they may have with Dr. Fabiola Aparicio-Ting, Associate Dean (Undergraduate Health and Science Education) in the Cumming School of Medicine (feaparic@ucalgary.ca).

Attendance

Regular attendance is advised in order to succeed in HSOC 201. Students are expected to take notes during class and should not rely solely on material supplied by the instructors. Instructors may or may not post lectures notes to D2L, at their individual discretion. In-class discussion and all content presented in class, including concepts and examples, can constitute substantial learning and can be considered for assessment. It is important that you make every effort to attend all sessions since much of the learning in this course will be gained through in-class discussions. Marks for participation (10% of the overall grade) cannot be gained unless you are in attendance. Please notify the instructor directly via email for any extended absences.

Conduct During Lectures

The classroom should be respected as a safe place to share ideas without judgement - a community in which we can all learn from one another. Students are expected to frame their comments and questions to lecturers in respectful and appropriate language, always maintaining sensitivity towards the topic. Students, employees, and academic staff are also expected to demonstrate behaviour in class that promotes and maintains a positive and productive learning environment.

As members of the University community, students, employees and academic staff are expected to demonstrate conduct that is consistent with the University of Calgary Calendar, the Code of Conduct and Non-Academic Misconduct policy and procedures, which can be found at

<https://ucalgary.ca/student-services/student-conduct/policy>

Use of Internet and Electronic Communication Devices in Class

The Bachelor of Health Sciences program aims to create a supportive and respectful learning environment for all students. The use of laptop and mobile devices is acceptable when used in a manner appropriate to the course and classroom activities. However, research studies have found that inappropriate/off-topic use of electronic devices in the classroom negatively affects the learning of others during class time.

Students are responsible for being aware of the University's Internet and email use policy, which can be found at <https://www.ucalgary.ca/legal-services/university-policies-procedures/acceptable-use-electronic-resources-and-information-policy>

Use of Artificial Intelligence Tools

Generative Artificial Intelligence (AI), and specifically foundational models that can create writing, computer code, and /or images using minimal human prompting includes not only GPT-4 (and its siblings ChatGPT and Bing), but many writing assistants that are built on this or similar AI technologies.

Students may use artificial intelligence tools for creating an outline for all course assignments in HSOC 201. However, the final submitted assignment(s) must be original work produced by the individual student alone; students are ultimately accountable for the work they submit. This use must be documented in an appendix for each assignment. The documentation should include what tool(s) were used, how they were used, and how the results from the AI were incorporated into the submitted work. You could also be asked to provide evidence of your own work. Failure to cite the use of AI generated content in an assignment/assessment will be considered a breach of academic integrity and subject to Academic Misconduct procedures. Please see this library guide for how to cite the use of AI tools: <https://libguides.ucalgary.ca/c.php?g=733971&p=5302331>

Students are not allowed to upload class slides, assignment instructions, or other course materials to AI tools or platforms. These are the intellectual property of the course instructor (IP); uploading these to and AI platform may breach IP rules since some of these sites may use these as training/output data.
