Course Description:

An advanced seminar involving critical analysis of contemporary health issues. Topics vary from year-to-year, but are always drawn from the current academic literature, from the public policy arena, and/or from the popular media.

Overarching Theme

A strong, critical appreciation and understanding of the complex historical, cultural, and economic dynamics that create global health challenges; and the tools and skills to improve global health and tackle health inequities. Each semester, case studies and contemporary events will be used to illustrate global health concepts and principles and how these can be used to address health inequities locally and globally.

Global Objectives

1. To foster an appreciation and understanding of the multi-dimensional factors that influence global health, including psychosocial, ecological and political factors.

2. To promote the value of the diversity of methodological approaches employed to investigate issues in global health.
3. To cultivate critical thinking about health inequities both locally and globally.

Learning Objectives

By the end of this course, students will be able to:

1. Identify and analyze the determinants and factors that contribute to complex health inequalities locally and globally, including the history of colonization, cultural, economic and power dynamics.
2. Identify the role of cultural competency skills, equitable partnership building, capacity building, and OCAP principles in global health work.
3. Describe the contributions of diverse disciplines within a transdisciplinary Global Health framework (e.g. veterinary medical scientists, social scientists, biologists, ecologists, environmental scientists, biomedical professionals, economists, political scientists, etc.)
4. Identify the roles of stakeholders such as government (local, national), NGOs, donors, academia, international organizations (WHO, UN, etc.), and community in research, program and policy development.
5. Apply and critique global health and disease burden statistics from community health assessments, disease registries, and surveillance data.
6. Discuss strategies to improve global health, including health promotion programs, governance and policy.

Learning Resources

A list of required readings, including links to sources from the University of Calgary's library collection and other publically available resources will be posted on D2L. There is no required textbook for this course.

A Note regarding readings

A list of required readings will be outlined on D2L and links and documents will be made available, where possible. Required readings have been chosen carefully to inform you and enhance the lecture material. Students are REQUIRED to complete assigned readings BEFORE each lecture. Instructors will proceed in class on the assumption that students have read completely the assigned readings. Students should be aware that many of the readings they will be assigned may be of an unfamiliar nature and style. Students should allot sufficient time to allow for several reads of the assigned material.

Evaluation

The University policy on grading and related matters is described in section F of the 2021-2022 Calendar.

In determining the overall grade in the course, the following weights will be used:

Description*	Percentage of Grade	Due Date
Written assignments Midterm paper – Describing the Problem A review of the literature related to your personal learning objectives to describe a global health issue of your choice.	20%	February 18, 2022 by 11:59pm via D2L

Description*	Percentage of Grade	Due Date
Final Paper - Solutions and Future Directions A review and critique of existing interventions for your described problems	20%	April 11, 2022 by 11:59pm via D2L
Individual Paper Presentations Midterm paper presentation Final paper presentation	10% 10%	February 16, 2022 April 6, 2022
Student-led Seminar Small group presentations discussing one of the core concepts of public health. This is a student led session that includes learning objectives and interactive components.	20%	TBA (students will sign-up in Week 2)
Weekly Instagram posts Students will be expected to sign-up for an account (if they do not already have one) and participate weekly by posting and responding to peer posts related to concepts discussed in class that week. The account will be monitored throughout the week and students will be evaluated on their quality of participation.	10%	Throughout term
Class Participation Students are expected to arrive on time, participate in classroom activities and must be prepared to comment or raise a question about the material being considered during each class. Participation is judged based on quality rather than quantity, and marks will reward students who offer thoughtful commentary in a respectful manner.	10%	Throughout term

There is no Registrar-scheduled final exam for HSOC 591.

Students who do not complete both written assignments will be considered as not having completed the course; this will be reflected on the students' official transcript as 'Incomplete'. In the absence of medical or other documented reasons, the instructor reserves the right to award an 'Incomplete'.

A Note regarding Writing Assignments:

Writing skills are important to academic study in all disciplines. In keeping with the University of Calgary's emphasis on the importance of academic writing in student assignments (section E.2 of 2021-22 Calendar), writing is emphasized, and the grading thereof in determining a student's mark in this course. The Bachelor of Health Sciences values excellence in writing. Competence in writing entails skills in crafting logical, clear, coherent, non-redundant sentences, paragraphs and broader arguments, as well as skills with the mechanics of writing (grammar, spelling, punctuation). The University of Calgary offers a number of instructional services through the Students' Success Centre's Writing Support Services (<http://www.ucalgary.ca/writingsupport/>) for students seeking feedback on assignments or seeking to improve their general writing skills. Students are strongly encouraged to take advantage of these programs.

The only exceptions to this are those in keeping with the University Calendar (debilitating illness, religious conviction, or severe domestic affliction) that are received in writing and with supporting documentation. Traffic jams and late or full buses are common events in Calgary and are NOT acceptable reasons for late arrivals to class, meetings and examinations. Please note that while absences are permitted for religious reasons, students are responsible for providing advance notice and adhering to other guidelines on this matter, as outlined in the University Calendar (<https://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/e-4.html>).

Course Evaluations and Student Feedback

Student feedback will be sought at the end of the course through the Universal Student Rating of Instruction (USRI) and a qualitative student evaluation. Students are welcome to discuss the process and content of the course at any time with the instructor. Students may also address any concerns they may have with Dr. Ebba Kurz, Associate Dean (Undergraduate Health and Science Education) in the Cumming School of Medicine (kurz@ucalgary.ca).

Attendance

It is important that you make every effort to attend all sessions since much of the learning in this course will be gained through in-class discussions. Marks for participation cannot be gained unless you are in attendance. Please notify the instructor directly via email for any extended absences.

Conduct During Lectures

The classroom should be respected as a safe place to share ideas without judgement - a community in which we can all learn from one another. Students are expected to frame their comments and questions to lecturers in respectful and appropriate language, always maintaining sensitivity towards the topic. Students, employees, and academic staff are also expected to demonstrate behaviour in class that promotes and maintains a positive and productive learning environment.

As members of the University community, students, employees and academic staff are expected to demonstrate conduct that is consistent with the University of Calgary Calendar, the Code of Conduct and Non-Academic Misconduct policy and procedures, which can be found at <https://www.ucalgary.ca/legal-services/university-policies-procedures>.

Students are expected to take notes during class and should not rely solely on material supplied by the instructors. Any content presented in class, whether verbally or in written form, could be used for assessment purposes. Class discussion is understood to constitute content.

Use of Internet and Electronic Communication Devices in Class

The Bachelor of Health Sciences program aims to create a supportive and respectful learning environment for all students. The use of laptop and mobile devices is acceptable when used in a manner appropriate to the course and classroom activities. However, research studies have found that inappropriate/off-topic use of electronic devices in the classroom negatively affects the learning of others during class time.

Students are responsible for being aware of the University's Internet and email use policy, which can be found at <https://www.ucalgary.ca/policies/files/policies/electronic-communications-policy.pdf>.
