

MDSC 301 Graduate Assistant Research - Position – Winter 2025
Bachelor of Health Sciences Program, Cumming School of Medicine

MDSC 301 is a course based on a CURE (Course-based Undergraduate experience) to introduce applied bioinformatics and provide a research experience to undergraduate students via the analysis of the effect of structural variants on gene expression in C. elegans. A Graduate Assistant Research position is opened.

- From Jan. 06 to April 11, 54 hours total (~4-5 hours per week)
- Duties are grading assignments in a timely manner, managing submissions of assignments, office hours, facilitating learning activities, support to students in the implementation of the research projects, managing and facilitating student questions during lectures, delivering content (optional)
- Previous experience with sequencing data and/or research appreciated
- Deadline to apply: Nov. 15.
- Interviews on Nov. 18-22.
- Send CV and statement of interest at: tatiana.maroilley@ucalgary.ca