The Ravensview Approach

The Ravensview approach is tailored to the needs of our clients. We do a rigorous one-on-one assessment with each client at the beginning of treatment to help us understand their situation and develop a personalized treatment program as well as planning the discharge and Recovery Managements.

Clients do not need to have an addiction or substance use disorder to access programs offered at Ravensview.

All clients will be paired with two key healthcare professionals who support and guide treatment:

- A Most-Responsible Physician (MRP) – a medical doctor specializing in psychiatry and/or addiction – who oversees our client’s assessment, treatment and appropriate medications.
- A Prime Therapist - a specialized psychologist, social worker or other mental health professionals who helps our clients progress through psychotherapy, group therapy and other aspects of treatment.
The Cornerstone Program at Ravensview provides adults aged 26 and over with individualized assessments and tailored treatment strategies that address their specific needs. We assess each client’s physical, mental, social and spiritual health so we can prepare personalized treatment and recovery management plans. This holistic approach to mental health acknowledges and treats the entire person.

The Cornerstone Program

The Cornerstone Program at Ravensview is Western Canada’s leading mental health and addiction treatment program for adults. We built the program on a foundation of Homewood’s over 135 years of clinical experience and excellence in combination with the best available research on innovative mental health and addiction treatments.

Cornerstone is an inpatient service, meaning that clients stay at Ravensview for the duration of their treatment, usually six to nine weeks. During that time, they participate in a program that combines group and individual therapies such as cognitive behavioural therapy, dialectical behaviour therapy, occupational therapy and other approaches including horticulture, recreation, art and music therapies.

Who is the Cornerstone Program for?

Cornerstone is for adults aged 26 and over, struggling with mental health, trauma and/or addiction. The program welcomes those from all walks of life, cultural backgrounds, genders and religions into a program characterized by cultural safety and cultural humility.
Treatment

Our Cornerstone Program treats a wide range of mental health and addiction issues, including concurrent mental disorders:

- Post-traumatic stress or trauma-related challenges
- Substance use disorders and addictions
- Depression, anxiety and other mental health challenges
- Behavioural addictions (including addictions to gambling, gaming, shopping and other behaviours)

Additionally, the Cornerstone Program is designed to help with complex and multi-dimensional problems including secondary diagnoses of disordered eating, attention deficit and learning disorders, personality disorders, disorders related to aging and chronic pain disorders. Each client’s needs will be individually assessed.

Family Support

Research shows that the support and understanding of family members increases the positive effects of mental health treatment, so the Cornerstone Program ensures that the client’s family has an important role to play if it makes sense for their treatment.
Ravensview’s My Path Program for young adults offers each client evidence-based treatments that recognize the unique mental health and life stage development challenges that young people face.

The My Path Program

My Path is a specialized treatment program for young adults from age 19 to 25. My Path clients stay at Ravensview for six to nine weeks for a program that combines group and individual therapies such as cognitive behavioural therapy, dialectical behaviour therapy, occupational therapy and other approaches including horticulture, art and music therapies.

My Path Programming also includes an enhanced focus on recreational therapy to encourage healthy and active lifestyles.

Who is the My Path Program for?

My Path is for young adults aged 19-25 from all cultural and social backgrounds struggling with mental health and addiction issues. My Path clients may be facing issues with addiction, anxiety, self-esteem, identity, sexuality, social dynamics or the transition to adulthood.

My Path addresses clinical issues as well as issues associated with this stage of life. The goal of the My Path Program is to help clients learn and develop the skills needed to lead healthy, productive lives.
Why Choose the My Path Program?

The My Path Program offers unique treatment for young adults facing challenges with mental health and/or addiction. Our program provides:

- Approaches tailored specifically to young adults
- Individualized treatment and recovery management plans
- Treatment based on the best research and experience
- Group and one-on-one settings
- Strong peer group of clients at the same stage of life
- Dietician consultation
- Access to a professionally designed gym
- Focus on health, social and physical activities

Treatment

My Path treats mental health and addiction-related issues including:

- Trauma and post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD), depression, anxiety and obsessive-compulsive disorder
- Substance use disorders and addictions including opiate addiction/abuse, alcohol addiction and other drug addictions
- Behavioural addictions including gaming, pornography, gambling and others
- Challenges related to sexuality, identity, self-esteem, social dynamics and/or the transition to adulthood

My Path also helps clients facing concurrent disorders – multiple mental health or addiction challenges at the same time, such as depression in combination with addiction.

Family Support

Research shows that supportive family members increase the effectiveness of mental health treatment, so the My Path Program ensures that the client’s family has an important role to play if it makes sense for their treatment.
Ravensview developed the Vanguard Program for high-achieving, high-responsibility executives and professionals looking to develop mental health and overall wellness in their lives.
