How Competency-based Medical Education (CBME) Leads can Claim Credits in the MOC Program (2017)

Introduction:
Thank you for your commitment to Competence by Design (CBD) and continuing professional development (CPD)! Among the many activities you participate in as a medical professional, there are a large number that can be claimed for Maintenance of Certification (MOC) credit in one or more of the three CPD Framework sections. This document focuses specifically on those related to your role as a CBME lead.

1. Section 1 – Group Learning:
The time you spend participating in small group educational sessions focused on CBD/CBME can be claimed under Section 1: Unaccredited group learning for 0.5 credits per hour.

2. Section 2 – Self-Learning:
Your involvement in systems learning activities, from committee work to curriculum development to peer review, can be claimed under Section 2 for 15 credits per year.

   Additional learning you acquire from engaging in activities above and beyond your formal CBME lead faculty development, but related to your CBME role, is eligible for 2 credits per hour as a Personal Learning Project (PLP).

3. Section 3 – Assessment:
When you receive feedback on your performance as a teacher, facilitator or CBME lead, you can claim the time you spend reviewing and reflecting on this feedback for 3 credits per hour under Section 3.

These options can assist you in translating your continuing professional development activities into valuable MOC Program credits as a result of CBME work and learning. Please note that to receive MOC credits, you must document the activity, along with your associated learning outcome(s), in your MAINPORT ePortfolio.

If you have any questions related to any of the above, please do not hesitate to contact me at your convenience.
