Pediatrics, Advocacy and Leadership – Lessons from a Pandemic

Katharine Smart, MD, FRCPC

At the end of this presentation, participants will be able to:

1. Explain the skillset needed to be an effective pediatric leader and advocate.
2. Describe the challenges and rewards of building a social pediatrics program in a remote setting.
3. Describe the threats to child health exacerbated by the pandemic and how we need to reimagine ourselves as pediatricians to address them.
