Changes in rates of eating disorders during the pandemic. What are the implications for early interventions for eating disorders in the community?

Gina Dimitropoulos

Associate Professor, Faculty of Social Work,
University of Calgary

Scott Patten

Professor, Cuthbertson & Fischer Chair in Pediatric Mental Health,
University of Calgary

Objectives:

1. Identify patterns of hospital admissions for eating disorders, and related conditions, among YYA during the pandemic period.
2. To develop an understanding of evidence-informed clinical practice guidelines for transitioning youth and young adults (YYA) with eating disorders from pediatric to adult services.
3. To learn about early intervention approaches for addressing emerging eating symptoms in the community to prevent chronicity and the need for hospitalization.
